

THE CITY.

Terms of the Express.

The Express is delivered to subscribers at fifteen cents per week, or seventy-five cents per month, payable to the carriers.

House Burned.

The residence of Ambrose Waller, in Simpsonville, Shelby county, Kentucky, with its household contents, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. Accidental. Loss $3,000.

Advertising.

Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. of New York, say they have never done as large a business at this time of the year before. They attribute this fact to their having advertised more this season than ever before. They are undoubtedly right.

Notice.

All those who have handed in their names as charter members of the new lodge of Pythias are notified to meet at the Good Templar hall, corner Eleventh and Green streets, punctually at half-past seven o'clock Tuesday evening. Business of importance.

Home Again.

Yesterday evening the boys of the Wadell Grays and Helm Guards arrived from Lebanon to their great delight. They will, for the present, lay aside their martial habits and resume their civilian garb. The militia of Woodford county have been mounted, and will do duty in Marion county in the effort to regulate the regulators.

Indictments.

The grand jury of the Circuit Court, yesterday, returned an indictment for murder against Jos. Bowman for killing Chas. Snyder; and one for perjury against H. Kissler, on account of the testimony he gave on the examining trial. Bowman was arrested yesterday by Officer Sweeney and Kissler by Officer Samuel Risley; both committed for trial.

Thrown off the Track.

The train on the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington road that left here at 11:15 last night struck a cow in a cut half-mile east of Zion, throwing the tender, baggage car and forward trucks of one passenger car off the track. No one hurt. The down train was delayed by not being able to get past. The track is now clear.

Improving.

It is gratifying to be able to state that young Melcher, who was crushed yesterday morning in the stone-yard on Portland avenue, is much better this morning, and his physician has strong hope he will recover. The only serious wounds are the cut in his side, above the hip-bone, and a broken bone in his ankle. It was at first feared he had sustained severe internal injuries, but this does not seem to be the case.

Caught.

It will be remembered that sometime since, ex-Gov. Meriwether was robbed in day-light by an expert darkey. The detective force have been at work, and succeeded in tracing the thief in Wm. Hall, arrested in St. Louis by the police of that city on Sunday. Gov. Meriwether went to St. Louis in company with officer J. W. Booker to identify the party. Last night Capt. Shadburne received a dispatch from Booker stating that Hall had been secured and would arrive here to-night.

Completely Exonerated.

The creditors of Mr. T. C. Pomeroy held a meeting on Saturday, and, after a full examination of his affairs, signed a statement completely exonerating him from wrong or complicity of wrong in the unfortunate matters familiar to the public. He surrendered every dollar, even his watch and bed-room furniture. But let us add that his creditors acted generously and restored to him a remnant of the wreck of his fortune. The settlement was alike honorable to Mr. Pomeroy and his creditors.

Cigar Thieves.

Some ten days ago Mr. E. S. Sutton, who keeps a drug store on Jefferson street, near Third, missed a box of cigars from his front counter, where a lot were piled up. A week ago another box was stolen, and last Friday night a third. He determined to set a watch, and last night prepared his trap. Between 9 and 10 o'clock, three boys entered the front door, and seeing no one about, one of them snatched a box and made off. Mr. Sutton put out after him, and his assistants after the others. The thief ran and dodged backwards and forwards, but was finally caught at the corner of Tenth; one of the others was also caught. These boys are about 14 years old, live on Portland avenue, near Eighteenth street, and are said to belong to a regularly organized gang.

Town Topics.

A New Dress.

Messrs. Rogers & Cornell, the well-known proprietors of the Pearl saloon, it appears, are not only imbued with the spirit of improvement which pervades our community at present, but are determined to eclipse all others in point of taste and elegance, as is displayed in the new dress which has just been given their house inside and out. The interior of their always elegant establishment has now become gorgeous from the effects of the brush of skillful artists. The ceiling is beautifully frescoed with handsome designs, and, while the side walls are painted and gilded in such colors as to give a beautiful effect to the whole, it would be superfluous to mention that they keep nothing but the finest and purest of liquors.

COMMERCIAL CONVENTION.

825,000 DAMAGES DEMANDED.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad—Another Interesting Fact. Some time since we commented upon the fees of Dr. Yandell and Dr. Dayless. We did not at that time understand what we have since learned—that Judge Black expressed himself perfectly satisfied with the correctness of the bills, and that he was prepared to pay them himself, if the road did not. The Directors of the road have blundered in this matter as well as in others. Their refusal to settle the account, and the consequent notoriety given to it, has brought upon them a neat little demand from Judge Black to pay him $25,000 for the injury sustained. We do not say that Judge Black would have been contented to take the mere payment of medical advisers. But his prompt settlement would have doubtless induced him to be more indulgent, and his demand would probably have been less. Now we understand that they are negotiating with Judge Black to settle the account by a compromise, he to pay the bills out of the cash settlement. But the Doctors, meanwhile, get nothing, and have even been treated to professional ostracism.

Old Landmarks Disappearing.

Everybody knows the old story-and-a-half frame building at the southwest corner of Brook and Jefferson streets, and everybody has wondered, for the last fifteen or twenty years, why the spirit of progress passed it by. When that building, or, rather, those buildings—there are three tenements under one roof—were built, our oldest citizens scarcely remember—certainly away back yonder in the earlier years of the present century, at a time when Louisville was but a small town, and when all east of that point was covered with heavy forest trees, the only outlet being the road to Bardonia. These old buildings are now in course of demolition. The work began this morning. Mr. Meyer, of Jefferson street, between First and Second, has bought the property and will erect two, perhaps three, two-story brick business houses on the site. So are rapidly vanishing all the old landmarks.

NEGRO ROW IN THE COUNTY.

Shooting and Biting.

A ball was given Saturday night by the wood-cutters, colored, at their cabins in Christmas' woods, some five miles from the city, on the Flat Lick road. Quite a number of darkies, men and women, were present from the city. Just before midnight a quarrel arose between the Radical and Conservative negroes, on purely political grounds, and the quarrel resulted in a shooting and cutting match. In the affray, a man named Taylor, with two others, were shot seriously; another man was badly cut, and a woman knocked over and beaten severely. All of these parties live in the city. The shooting and cutting was done by two negroes who have not yet been caught; but the police are on the hunt for them, and it is believed they will soon be nabbed.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR.

Arrangements Complete.

The question of offering premiums for base-ball matches every day during the fair, was yesterday decided positively at a meeting of directors. A committee composed of members selected from the various base-ball clubs in the city, has already begun the work of notifying clubs at other points, and some of the best in the country are expected to be present.

Floral and Power halls will both be open next Saturday, and all who wish to do so can send the articles they propose to exhibit. Anything sent before Saturday will be likely to suffer from dirt, as workmen are now engaged in renovating the halls, but will be done Friday evening.

The Sick Man of France.

There would not be so much said and written and telegraphed and done about the health of the Emperor Napoleon, unless he lived for something besides himself. There are positive assertions, and then ominous hints about him almost every day. It is hard to know how he may be from the contradictory reports that come across the great waters. One day we have him dying and the next attending to his business. And after all we really know nothing of his condition, except that France, and indeed, all of Europe, are very much concerned about his welfare. We might go further and say that the United States and even the whole of the civilized world do not look upon his condition without concern.

It is not at all wonderful that France and even all of Europe should be anxious about the health of the Emperor. Things are not in good condition just now for Napoleon III. to pass from among the sovereigns of the earth. In spite of his brilliant career through the first twelve years of his power, his luck seems to have thrown a powerful shadow over his later reign. His attempt to inaugurate Maximilian in the halls of the Montezumas was his first great mishap. This Mexican failure has ever since haunted him like a hideous dream. It was a mistake that he seems not able to correct. It was the first dark spot on his bright sun; but others have followed until the great luminary has been threatened with obscuration.

Had Napoleon died with the glories of Solferino clustering around him, he might have transmitted his diadem to whom he designated. But it might not be so easy for him to see clear the way of his scepter through the darkness of Mexico, the clouds of Prussia, and the shadows of his own domain. There may not be honor enough in his name to sustain his little son through the troubles of a long reign. And the Emperor Eugenie, though renowned among the milliners and mantuamakers, has not a figure in the politics of the day that would suggest any potent assistance from her in behalf of the regency that would follow the death of her husband.

Napoleon is not an old man, but he has lived more of life on his side of his three score and ten than many octogenarians who have preceded him. He has thought, acted and debauched. Though no older than Gladstone, he is not like the English Premier, considered in the prime of life. It will be many years before the Prime Minister of Great Britain shall have lived as much as the Emperor of the French. With the physique of the Englishman of more years, Napoleon might live to carry out the plans now seemingly in his mind, and thus reinstate himself in the affection of the French people so as to make permanent her dynasty. But death may claim him before the work is done.

As a matter of course, the French feel anxious about Napoleon, because they anticipate a revolution upon his demise. And the rest of Europe know well enough that they must feel the effects of any fundamental change in the French empire. All feel that this is no time for Napoleon to die; that he had better have extinguished his lamp of life in the midst of the bright glory of the early years of his reign, or keep it yet burning until he can get over the darkness that now seems to surround him. Death, however, don't reason that way, and Napoleon's hours may now be numbered. On the other hand, the reports of his ill-health may all be exaggerations, as others have been that have preceded them. The Emperor has been ill before this, and though many said he would die, he did not. He rose from each spell as with new life, and it may be that he will now come forth from the present malady fully equal to the great task of setting right the empire which he has gotten into anything but a good condition to leave at dying. If, however, he is to recover and go on for the future to repeat the mistakes of the past half a dozen years, the sooner he dies the better for himself, and his family, and France, and Europe and the world.

The latest development in the English High Church party is said to be in the direction of the Greek Church, as also appeared to be the case in the American Episcopal Church a few years ago. Mr. Stephen Hatherly, of Wolverhampton, England, a friend of Dr. Pusey, has lately succeeded in gathering around him some twenty-one Englishmen, and establishing a branch of the "Orthodox Russian Church" in that place. And though not a clergyman himself, Mr. Hatherly seems to have undertaken to do the work of an "Orthodox" priest in his little congregation. And by means of this little band he hopes to be able to bring about, ultimately, a union between the Russian and English Churches. To secure aid in his most orthodox undertaking, and perhaps to get himself made into an orthodox priest, Mr. Hatherly had gone to St. Petersburg and Moscow, and it is said he met with a very cordial reception, and is likely to secure the needed aid to purchase a place of worship in Wolverhampton, and to start his enterprise in the most promising manner.

A CAPITAL JOKE.—The attempt to remove the Federal capital to St. Louis.

Mr. MARTIN, the author of the statement that Abraham Lincoln was a Roman Catholic in his earlier days, writes to the Tablet (Romanist organ) reaffirming his statement. He says: "I say again, and I affirm, upon my honor and conscience, that I have had a conversation with Mr. Lefevre, the late Bishop of Detroit, in the month of July, 1863, and that this venerable and lamented prelate told me that, during his mission life in Illinois, he had many times heard the confession of young Abe Lincoln, who was then a Catholic. If the fact was not known in America it is no less true on that account." The Tablet, nevertheless, denies the statement.

The Lexington Statesman objects to Tom McCreery returning to the Senate, because "he isn't man enough." It was the uniform opinion of everybody in Washington last winter that he was one of the finest types of a Kentuckian ever seen in that quarter. And if any "type" better than a Kentuckian can be found, point it out.

CONSERVATIVE.—The Republicans in West Virginia are moving to abolish the disfranchisement test oaths.

THE L. AND N. R. CONTROVERSY.

Another Plan Suggested.

To the Editor of the Evening Express:—The merchants of Main street, as a class, are gratified at the course your paper has pursued in reference to the coming election for President and Directors of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

However much to be deprecated is the bitter controversy which has grown up between the rival aspirants to the office of President, the merchants feel that they have advocated their interests (and, therefore, the interests of the stockholders), and that you will continue to do so.

They also think that it is not too late to suggest a middle course in the coming election, which will most conduce to the interests of the stockholders, the road, the public and themselves.

We fully agree with you that Mr. Newcomb "is not the only man out of our population of 150,000 that we could safely select for the presidency of the Louisville and Nashville railroad." We go a little further, and say the same of Mr. Wilder. We do not see that these two men—the one representing the Western Financial Corporation and the other the Merchants' Bank of Kentucky—should be quietly settled upon by the stockholders, and by themselves as rival candidates, to the exclusion of any other person. The matter between these two resolves itself into a question as to which bank shall be the holder of the funds of the company—only this and nothing more. The merchants of Main street understand this, and in the complexion of the case, and do not conceive that the selection of a place of deposit for the funds of a railroad, or any other company, should lead to so much discussion, so much heat and so much bitterness. They do not think Mr. Newcomb's administration of affairs has advanced the interests of the merchants of the city, and therefore they are perfectly willing that he should retire. They have no great objection to Mr. Wilder (one of their number), personally, but they do object to him as the exponent of a place of deposit. They also object to the miserable spirit in which the contest between these two is being waged, believing, very rightly, that men who cannot control their own tempers are not usually the best fitted to control the affairs of a corporation. Taken all in all, they think the stockholders might, with great propriety and discretion, drop both the "birds" and elect a third, a gentleman instead. Such another can easily be found, we think, "in our population of 150,000"—one who possesses all the foresight, all the prudence, all the intelligence, all the financial ability and all the administrative powers of either of the two "birds" of the city, and, moreover, a much larger share of public spirit, greater energy, a vaster amount of industry, and, above all, genial, gentlemanly manners and that approachableness which a person in such a position should always possess. This gentleman (the one we mean) is a native-born citizen, a native of the city, in every attribute which constitutes the highest type of business man. We would designate by these characteristics Mr. Richard A. Robinson, a gentleman who is now and has been doing more work for the railroad and for the mercantile community in this city than any other man put together. He is the director of the city, in every attribute which constitutes the highest type of business man. We would designate by these characteristics Mr. Richard A. Robinson, a gentleman who is now and has been doing more work for the railroad and for the mercantile community in this city than any other man put together. He is the director of the city, in every attribute which constitutes the highest type of business man.

In the record of the two rival candidates, their partisans have pointed out every defect and deficiency of the opposite party. In the record of Mr. Robinson, either public or private, no living man can point out one.

We make this suggestion of Mr. Robinson for President, believing that an intelligent set of men like our City Council and the other stockholders will at once perceive the benefits to be derived from the placing of a man of this character at the head of the railroad company.

The wrangle which has been going on has already stopped the sale of the company's bonds in New York, and very justly too, for if strangers believe but one half that is said in the newspapers about the public and private characters of the two opposing candidates, they will necessarily have little faith in the administrative qualities of either.

It is said the one gentleman, Mr. N., is opposed to the Knoxville extension being completed, and that the other, Mr. W., will if elected make a clean sweep of the higher officials of the road. Now, both of these, if true, are evils from which we trust the road will be delivered. Even "if" in our population of one hundred and fifty thousand, or out of it, we could not find better men than the higher officers, under the directors, who manage this road.

We hope the stockholders will look the matter square in the face, and make such a man President as will promote the highest interests of the road, the city, and consequently of themselves.

Gen. Lee's Courtesy to Northern Ladies

A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, writing from the Virginia White Sulphur Springs, devotes a paragraph to General R. E. Lee, and adds that the General seems especially anxious to heal the wounds of the war. The correspondent says: "Several ladies who were on a visit here at one time this season from a Northern State appeared to be without attention from their fellow-boarders. General Lee observed the fact, and desired some of his lady friends to cultivate their acquaintance. When these excused themselves on the ground that they did not know their names, and were without introduction, the General approached several of these visitors saying to each, 'I am Mr. Lee—may I ask your name?' And when this was given, he promptly presented them to his friends, who received them most cordially."

Four monster sharks were taken in a seine off Piney Point on Wednesday.

Bishop Lamy is building a magnificent Catholic cathedral in Santa Fe, New Mexico. It will be 200 feet long and 115 feet wide, with two massive towers each 100 feet high. It is built of stone, and is probably the first building of that material in the city.

At Paris, a Russian valet out of place hung himself in despair, and the suicide was discovered by the postman, who called to deliver a letter to the deceased, announcing the death of his father and the inheritance of $2,000 a year.

Pretty Women.

A comparatively few ladies monopolize the beauty as well as the attention of society. This ought not to be so, but it is, and will be while men are foolish and single out pretty faces for companions.

This can all be changed by using Hagan's Magnolia Balm, which gives the bloom of youth and a refined, sparkling beauty to the complexion, complexion, complexion, and complexion. No lady need complain of a red, tanned, freckled or rustic complexion who will invest seventy-five cents in Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its effects are truly wonderful.

To preserve and dress the hair, use Lyon's Katharion.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Regular Habit of Body is absolutely essential to physical health and clearness of intellect. It is this, and this alone, that constitutes the natural condition of the body. A free passage of the waste matter of the system through these natural waste pipes is as necessary to the purity of the body as the free passage of the blood through the arteries is necessary to the health of its inhabitants. Indigestion is the primary cause of most of the diseases of the digestive organs, and one of its most common results is CONSTIPATION. This complaint, besides being dangerous in itself, is a source of many disagreeable conditions, such as an unpleasant breath, a sallow skin, contaminated blood and bile, hemorrhoids, headache, loss of memory and general debility.

HOOPER'S STOMACH BITTERS remove all these evils by removing their immediate cause in the digestive organs, and regulating the action of the intestines. The combination of properties in this celebrated preparation is one of its chief merits. It is not merely a stimulant, or tonic, or an antacid, or a cathartic, but all these curative elements judiciously blended in one powerful restorative. It tends actively and vigor to the evacuation of the bowels, and gives tone to the membrane which lines it, gently stimulates the liver, braces the nerves, and cheers the animal spirits. No other remedy possesses such a variety of hygienic virtues. It is to these characteristics that it owes its prestige as a household medicine. Experience has proved that it is as harmless as the effluvia of a household, and hence it is so popular with the weaker sex as with the stronger.

HOOPER'S STOMACH BITTERS is sold in bottles and the trade-mark blown in the glass and engraved on the label, with our registered revenue stamp and the name of the test of genuineness. Beware of counterfeits.

WASHINGTON.

Death of General Rawlins,
Secretary of War.

Grant Arrives Too Late, and is Much Affected.

Preparations for the Funeral Ceremonies.

Speculations About Rawlins' Successor.

DEATH OF SECRETARY RAWLINS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The death of General Rawlins, Secretary of War, occurred this morning, one hour before the President reached here. The deceased expressed great desire yesterday and to-day to see his old companion and closest friend, and wondered why the President did not hasten to his side. Gen. Sherman met the President at the depot, having just come from the death bed of the Secretary. He drove the President to the residence of Gen. Rawlins.

Grant was much affected when he saw the remains, but sat down at once and wrote a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Rawlins, who is ill in Connecticut. The Secretary failed all day, but was conscious to within fifteen minutes of dissolution. At times he suffered from suffocation caused by internal hemorrhage. His last words were "My dear friend," during the day he expressed a desire to live only for his family, and for the special education of his two boys. The latter, however, he gave over to the officers of the Society of the Old Army of the Tennessee, who requested of him during the day that they might adopt them.

THE REMAINS.
President Grant is sitting up with the remains tonight. Tomorrow they will be removed to the War Department, from which place the funeral will take place at a future day.

THE DISEASE.
Of which Gen. Rawlins died was brought on by a cold contracted in the army in 1862. He had been much better during the last six months, and was rapidly improving on a diet of raw meat and eggs, but he unfortunately last week changed his diet, at a tea-party, to a rich meal, with over-exercising, brought on hemorrhages, from which he gradually sank into death.

THE FUNERAL.
A cabinet meeting was held to-night, at which arrangements for the funeral were made.

HIS SUCCESSOR.
Of course the Washington politicians are already at work talking about Gen. Rawlins' successor. Nothing has been decided, but they mention the names of Gen. Dodge, of Iowa, and Logan, of Illinois, while some persist in declaring that Joseph Holt, of Kentucky, is to be selected.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—A comparative statement of the revenue receipts of March, April, May, June, July and August, 1899, with the same months of the year 1898, shows an increase for the latter of $8,357,207. To-day's receipts, $851,000.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU.
Commissioner Delano to-day issued the following order:
All parties having claims in this office and all attorneys, claim agents, or other persons acting in their behalf or having business with this office, shall be required to appear in person at the same in writing, addressed to the Solicitor of the Bureau through the mails. No person whatever not connected with the office by official relations shall be admitted to the office with its clerks or employees except by express permission of the commissioner, deputy commissioner, or the solicitor.

THE LATE MR. GEN. RAWLINS.
At seven o'clock this morning Secretary Rawlins was in a tolerable comfortable condition. He spoke to Gen. John E. Smith and Commissioner Parker with his customary cheerfulness on various subjects and inquired whether they thought he would recover his health, or again rise from his bed. To this question Gen. Smith said he feared not, and whether he would be able to get up and walk with regard to the distribution of his remains in case he should die. He replied he would leave that to his friend, but he did not desire to have an ostentatious or expensive funeral.

During the afternoon Secretaries Cox and Robinson came to see him, when the latter read to him the following telegram:
"CONCORD, Mass., Sept. 6.—If Gen. Rawlins is living convey to him the assurance of my respect and sympathy, and of the sorrow with which I learn the condition of a friend so highly valued, a man so upright, able and faithful. God bless and keep him."
Secretary Rawlins said with deep emotion: "I am very grateful to the Attorney General for his love, and I wish you to say so to him."

At about 8 o'clock Dr. Peterson was left in charge. Dr. Bliss and Surgeon General Barnes having been obliged by other duties to leave for a short time. Dr. Peterson, a few minutes later, a courier arrived, and the doctor changed in the condition of the patient, whose pulse had become very irregular, and he remarked to General Giles A. Smith, who was sitting by his side, that he was sinking very fast, and had but a few moments to live and requested him to send for Surgeon General Barnes.

About this time there was read to him a telegram from Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, addressed to Gen. Sherman, dated Chicago, Sept. 6, as follows: "Will you please give my love to Gen. Rawlins, and tell him to send his love to me. With sincere sympathy and love to him." "Gen. Sheridan is very kind. I appreciate and am very grateful for his kind words, and I am sure he could do it. I would love to be a healthy man."

About five minutes past 4 o'clock he asked some one to raise him. Dr. Bliss, who had returned, adjusted his bed, and he lay down. Dr. Peterson held him up. His eyes at once became fixed, and without a struggle, he died at twelve minutes past 4 o'clock.

There were present at the death of Gen. Rawlins, Secretary of War, General Cox, and Postmaster General Cresswell. Gen. Giles A. Smith, Gen. J. A. Smith, Commissioner Parker, Jas. Rawlins, brother of the deceased, Gen. O. O. Howard, Surgeon General Barnes, Dr. Bliss, Dr. Peterson and the servants in attendance during the day.

The late Secretary often expressed a desire to see President Grant, asking when he would come, but was fearful he would live long enough to do so. Yesterday evening while Messrs. Robinson and Cox, and Postmaster General Cresswell were sitting at his side, the first named remarked: "Gen. Rawlins is very sorry to see you so sick, to which the general replied: "My Secretary, so far as I am personally concerned, as a member of the Cabinet, I have met with it before the last time. I am sure I shall see you again." The company were deeply affected, but made no reply.

Soon after the death of Secretary Rawlins, his body was embalmed and dressed in the uniform of a Major General Colonel Dayton, chief of General Sherman's staff, and Captain Johnson, of the medical department, to-night sit up with the corpse.

RETURN OF PRESIDENT GRANT.
President Grant, accompanied by Private Secretary Porter, arrived at Washington by a special train from Baltimore at 5:12, and was met at the station by General Sherman. He at once proceeded to the residence of General Giles A. Smith, where he learned that Secretary Rawlins had been dead an hour. The President was much affected while waiting upon the lifeless form of his friend, and expressed deep regret that, owing to the non-delivery of telegrams at Saratoga, he was prevented from sooner starting for Washington.

TELEGRAM TO MRS. RAWLINS.
President Grant, on returning to the Executive Mansion, transmitted the following dispatch:
"Mrs. Mary E. Rawlins, Dearborn, Conn.—Your beloved husband died at 12 o'clock, to be mourned."

THE TURF.
First Day of the Fall Meeting of the Lexington Association. Course Large Attendance—Magnificent Racing.

LEXINGTON, Sept. 6.—The fall meeting opened to-day with two races, the first race being the Produce Stakes for three year olds—six mile and repeat, with twenty-one entries—six starting. In this race Herzig is the favorite at great odds, and the betting in pools ranges as follows: Herzig was knocked down at two-and-a-half to one. The attendance is larger than for many years both in the stands and in the grandstand.

THE CROWD BECAME IMPATIENT and is eager for the fray; the bell rings to saddle up, and the six half-milled chargers come to base, and at the top they get off well together. Herzig in the lead, closely pushed by Grinstead. They keep in a pace until nearing the home stretch, when Kilgour makes a break and pressed the favorite, but the jockey on Herzig held the ribbons steadily and reached the string first, in 1:45; Richard second; Grinstead third; Buford fourth; Viley fifth, and Harper distanced.

THE BETTING now ranges as follows: Caving Herzig out of the pool selling; Kilgour, $50; Buford, $25, and the other two sold to Grinstead at $10. It was thought by the dealers that Grinstead would have taken the first heat if he had not got into "a pocket," and consequently had to pull out for position—but it seemed to us a "for-lorn hope." We think the child is born and named "Herzig." The bell-rings and the riders are up, the "go" is given, and away they speed, with Herzig in the lead, closely followed by Kilgour, who is making a break, and Grinstead fully, but is "love's labor lost"—Herzig comes home two lengths in advance—Buford makes a good second; Kilgour third; Grinstead fourth, and Viley fifth. Time, 1:45.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE SUMMARY.
B. G. Thomas' b. c. Herzig. 1
A. K. Richards' b. c. Kilgour. 2
Grinstead's b. c. T. H. Dunsbar. 3
Viley's b. c. F. H. W. 4
Harper's b. c. Equal. 5

THE SECOND RACE, 145, was a sweepstakes for two-year-olds, with eight entries, and only four starting. It is a "dash of one mile." Caldwell enters Jas. B. Clay's Maggie B. B., which ranks as favorite, bringing in pools $50, $10, $40, and $10. In fact, there is hardly any particular favorite in this race, and the odds being high, and even better is sanguine. The horses are brought to the string. Major Viley takes the drum, and off they go, with Clay in the lead, followed by Maggie B. B. keeps in front, and wins the dash by at least one length.

THE TURF.
First Day of the Fall Meeting of the Lexington Association. Course Large Attendance—Magnificent Racing.

LEXINGTON, Sept. 6.—The fall meeting opened to-day with two races, the first race being the Produce Stakes for three year olds—six mile and repeat, with twenty-one entries—six starting. In this race Herzig is the favorite at great odds, and the betting in pools ranges as follows: Herzig was knocked down at two-and-a-half to one. The attendance is larger than for many years both in the stands and in the grandstand.

THE CROWD BECAME IMPATIENT and is eager for the fray; the bell rings to saddle up, and the six half-milled chargers come to base, and at the top they get off well together. Herzig in the lead, closely pushed by Grinstead. They keep in a pace until nearing the home stretch, when Kilgour makes a break and pressed the favorite, but the jockey on Herzig held the ribbons steadily and reached the string first, in 1:45; Richard second; Grinstead third; Buford fourth; Viley fifth, and Harper distanced.

THE BETTING now ranges as follows: Caving Herzig out of the pool selling; Kilgour, $50; Buford, $25, and the other two sold to Grinstead at $10. It was thought by the dealers that Grinstead would have taken the first heat if he had not got into "a pocket," and consequently had to pull out for position—but it seemed to us a "for-lorn hope." We think the child is born and named "Herzig." The bell-rings and the riders are up, the "go" is given, and away they speed, with Herzig in the lead, closely followed by Kilgour, who is making a break, and Grinstead fully, but is "love's labor lost"—Herzig comes home two lengths in advance—Buford makes a good second; Kilgour third; Grinstead fourth, and Viley fifth. Time, 1:45.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE SUMMARY.
B. G. Thomas' b. c. Herzig. 1
A. K. Richards' b. c. Kilgour. 2
Grinstead's b. c. T. H. Dunsbar. 3
Viley's b. c. F. H. W. 4
Harper's b. c. Equal. 5

THE SECOND RACE, 145, was a sweepstakes for two-year-olds, with eight entries, and only four starting. It is a "dash of one mile." Caldwell enters Jas. B. Clay's Maggie B. B., which ranks as favorite, bringing in pools $50, $10, $40, and $10. In fact, there is hardly any particular favorite in this race, and the odds being high, and even better is sanguine. The horses are brought to the string. Major Viley takes the drum, and off they go, with Clay in the lead, followed by Maggie B. B. keeps in front, and wins the dash by at least one length.
